

HARRY F. WARD OF NEW YORK HERE MONDAY

Will Address Students on Chinese Situation
BRILLIANT SPEAKER

Current Periodicals

"The Relation of Students to the Present Situation in China" is the subject of an address that will be given by Professor Harry F. Ward in Swathmore Hall at five o'clock Monday all who are interested. Dr. Ward is Professor of Christian Ethics at Union Theological Seminary, New York, and he has a very extensive knowledge of questions relating to the East. He has already visited Montreal on more than one occasion, and has been received by large audiences wherever he has spoken.

In an article recently published, Dr. Ward wrote the following: "The world of our dreams and hopes is a world in which the currents of human existence that have for so long flowed separately are now meeting and merging in a common course. This world ought to be, it is a world that might be—the world that seemed until the last few years to be actually in process of formation. Our faith in the possibility of a world community finds a reason for its daring in the knowledge of social facts, and in the amount of unity in the thought-life of man that has been brought about through the multiplied contacts of the modern era. But the world that is presents to us a different picture.

"The black man and the yellow man alike are beginning to resent the implications of superiority on the part of those who are genuinely trying to do them good, as they have long resented the dominating brutality of those who call them 'dark negroes' and 'damned Chinkens'."

"These psychological attitudes mark a vitally significant historical fact. The end of the colonial period has come. One race will no longer consent to be governed by another. It is no longer possible to do good that way. If there is any statesmanship left in the white race, it will frankly abandon the attempt and seek to discover what self-determination for all peoples may mean in all the aspects of organized life, not only in Europe but clear to the ends of the earth.

"Such an attempt will necessarily involve the abandonment of the idea of profit and the practice of economic exploitation. It is a commonplace that the points of hottest conflict between the races, as between the classes, are the points where profit is highest. If there were no profit for the white man in China or India or the Philippines, there would be no objection to their independence. If we cannot accept the idea that the earth is for the development of all the children of man, if we cannot learn how to administer it for purposes of mutual aid, then we must resign ourselves to a future of increasing conflict between the races. Unless we can construct its economic base the ideal of world fellowship will remain only an ideal; the possibilities of fusion that now exist in the realm of mind and spirit will remain unrealized.

Unique Whirligig Machine Explained For The Curious

Towering just behind the Conservatorium of Music rising above the miniature paper mill belonging to the Forestry Department, few can have failed to notice a huge, red-painted wheel occasionally revolving slowly around after the fashion of a ferris machine. Before long this stately enigma will vanish from the eyes of the curious for it is being enclosed within walls, perhaps to protect it from the snow-blasts of winter. Mr. Rochester of the adjacent Forestry Building yesterday explained the matter for the benefit of curious motorists.

It is it seems a machine for testing the strength of packing boxes and bindings of all sorts for shipments. In the space of a few hours, it is claimed it is possible to submit a packing box to all the trials and blows which it would ordinarily meet with in a trip abroad, taking several weeks. If the box successfully passes its examinations that particular type of binding is pronounced fit for the gentle treatment of freights and longshoremen.

The machine technically known as the "Hazard machine," stands about fifteen feet high, resting on four wheels which are rotated by an electric motor. The wheel is composed of six sections of three inch

BLISS CARMAN SPENDS FEW BUSY MOMENTS AUTOGRAPHING BOOKS

An interesting note was added to the farewell lecture of Bliss Carman yesterday afternoon when he addressed an overflow audience in Room 105 of the Arts Building. It came as he concluded his lecture when he had been greeted with a round of applause which lasted for several moments, in the form of a large group of students who crowded up to the noted poet with copies of his latest book, just off the press, "Far Horizons." For the next few minutes Mr. Carman was busily engaged autographing the copies presented to him.

BOUTS NEXT WEEK AT SAINT ANNES

Boxers Also to Fight at Union

A week from last Wednesday will see twelve of the McGill men at St. Annes for the purpose of staging six bouts at the Tom Moore club. Friday, two days later, more bouts will be held in the Union. Harry Turner, formerly captain of the Canadian Olympic Boxing Team, will, in all probability, act as judge at the latter meet and it is expected that there will be five matches. It is imperative, however, that those men who have had some previous experience should turn out at the practice this Saturday at 4:30 in Molson Hall in order that lists of contestants may be drawn up. The Saturday afternoon practice is held specially for more experienced men and the coach works individually with each fighter.

Last night's practice was well attended. Routine work was gone through and a sharp work-out followed. New Gordon, of the senior rugby squad, appeared for the first time showing good condition, putting in a very good practice.

VARSITY GIVES DONATION

(Special to McGill Daily)
Toronto, Nov. 27.—The University of Toronto has donated a sum of $2,120 to the Hart House Community Theatre, according to a telegram received by the "Daily" late last night.

Ideal; the possibilities of fusion that now exist in the realm of mind and spirit will remain unrealized. "For the development of these two basic concepts—self-government for all people and the earth as the source of our common wealth—the next practical steps are the announcement by the great powers of their intention to restore full sovereignty to all subject peoples with a definite date set and methods of transfer of control specified, and the calling of a worldwide economic conference to arrange for the development and distribution of basic necessities according to need. Until these two steps are taken there will be no diminution of racial antagonism and conflict."

Dr. Ward makes his statements very definitely, and there is no doubt that he will be able to clear up many difficulties for those who hear him on Monday.

APPOINTMENTS AT U. OF T.

(Special to McGill Daily)

Toronto, Nov. 27.—General Cartwright has been appointed director of Military Studies and Commander in Chief of Toronto C.O.T.C. in succession to the late Col. Lang, who died very suddenly on November 29. Colonel W.R. Lang had been connected with military affairs since 1889, and his career had been particularly distinguished. He became Director of Military Studies at Toronto and Commander-in-Chief of the C.O.T.C. in 1917 which position he held at the time of his tragic death last Friday, and which he filled with unusual distinction and success.

General Cartwright, who will take up his duties immediately, is a brilliant soldier, and a veteran of the Great War.

NOMINEES

Men who are running for faculty representatives on the Students' Council in the elections of December 9 are asked to hand in their pictures (glossy print, head and shoulders) to the "Daily" as soon as possible.

Short biographies and platforms are to be in by Saturday, December 5.

DR. AULD TELLS OF MEDICAL MISSIONS

Anti Foreign Movements and Rebellion in China

A most impressive and interesting lecture on the conditions existing in China, today and in particular on "Medical Missions in China" was delivered by Dr. Auld, a medical missionary in North China to the Students' Volunteer Society at 5 p.m. in the S.C.A. yesterday.

The Student Volunteer Society is composed of students who either intend to take up mission work or who are interested in it.

The meeting yesterday was opened by the president who almost immediately called on Dr. Auld to speak. Dr. Auld commenced by explaining the reason for the wave of anti-foreign feeling which swept through China during the summer months. The feeling was almost wholly caused by the Chinese students who have commenced to see how unfairly China has been treated by the west. No foreigners may be arrested by the Chinese police, without their first applying to the council of the nation concerned. Again the Chinese Government was not allowed to change its customs duties without the consent of the powers who negotiated the treaty. Such state of affairs in such a country as Canada, said the speaker, would be intolerable. It would seem to be only justice to China, to grant her these concessions. Yet some of her own greatest statesmen are against the granting of these. But the students rebelled at the thought of the indignities which their country was suffering, at the hands of the west and the anti-foreign movement was the result. Since then China has been granted the right to manage her own customs and things have quieted down considerably. After describing the awful suffering caused by the military governors and the civil wars, Dr. Auld went on to speak on his own particular field, that of medical missions.

He showed the necessity of medical education among the Chinese, the dearth of doctors and particularly of nurses. There is only one hospital for

Ye Fortnightly Review
Is Again In Ye
Limelight

"When the Literary Supplement of the McGill Daily expired for want of financial support, university literary lights began to make plans for a full-fledged literary magazine. On Nov. 25 they published the first number of the McGill Fortnightly Review.

"Although the Review is essentially a student affair the initial number contains an article by Stephenson Leacock, who is Professor of Political Science at McGill. It is entitled The Flight of College Time. Appears also a poem by Bliss Carman, a Canadian poet who will soon join the McGill faculty."

So says the "New Student" a paper that has hitherto given some evidence of accuracy. If the "New Student" were not published in the City of New York we would be inclined to think that the careful editors were out on a binge—fading this we do not know what to think.

But look ye, in case ye have missed the point: "The University Literary Lights" did not publish the first number of "The Fortnightly Review" on November 25. They "strutted their stuff" on November 18.

Once again we wonder just what "Stevie's" face would look like if he saw himself called "Stephenson" Leacock? Incidentally he happens to be William Doy Professor of Political Economy at this University, not Professor of Political Science.

Some of us like to think of Bliss Carman as more than just a Canadian poet. The more particular among us like to see his name correctly—CARMAN. Bliss Carman will not join the faculty of the University soon—he has been here for two weeks on a lecturing visit and is about to honour Toronto.

To be Visitors at Divorce Debate Tuesday

CABINET SENSATION?

Rumours Numerous as Date of Assembly Draws Near —"Dark Horse"?

A bombshell was exploded in political circles at McGill yesterday when it was announced by the Right Honourable Gordon Nairn, prime minister, that he would not name a cabinet until Monday morning. A bomb came after an all-night session of the mysterious cabinet the identity of which is as yet unknown.

"It is impossible for me to give out the names of my trusty followers until the next meeting late tomorrow. As a result the names of the most who are to surround me in the new Government will not be revealed until Monday I regret this delay but I am certain that the results of that delay will be exceedingly beneficial. Stocks are sure to rise when I name my cabinet," the Premier declared.

In addition there are to be several secret caucuses. We will decide definitely the issue which we are to present in this all-vital problem of divorce. Should we have divorce? How tight are the bonds of marriage to be drawn? And above all should Canada have uniform divorce laws? On the latter phase we are convinced that Canada should. And the bill which we will introduce will handle that problem accordingly."

The Right Honourable Jack Spector leader of His Majesty's Most Loyal Opposition, the "Grand Old Man from Quebec" has lined up his forces and feels convinced, he states, that the fight on Tuesday evening will be a most bitter one.

"December 1 is bound to go down in history as a memorable day—a day in which the issue of Canada's vital problem, the issues of divorce, will be fought out in our parliamentary floor. Surely there is nothing more vital than this at the present moment to command our interest. It is essential that all members of the House turn out to debate. The fight must of necessity be keen. Now is the time for all good men and true to rally to the real cause and we shall, I am certain, achieve that success which we so desire."

"I am convinced that Canada's greatest problem at the moment is one of uniform divorce laws. Those who allege that I will again fail to turn up do not appreciate the fact that it was simply impossible for me to be present last session. This time they will see the "Dark Horse" and they will get the surprise of their lives."

In these words the mysterious "Dark Horse" last night addressed a vast audience—although that audience did not see him. He spoke via the radio.

In colorful and weeping terms he painted the glowing inequities of existing conditions and stated that his party had something original to offer in the matter of divorce and would offer it in a concrete manner on Tuesday next.

"Neither the Government nor the Opposition appreciate the true facts in this matter. In the words of that great master of English diction and true style, the greatest American writer 'We shall Goose Stop no longer.'"

He went on to state that the masses needed assistance, in all matters and that legislation would assist them.

Following this his voice gave way and he sank exhausted—his voice trickled away gently amid the enthusiastic applause of the static.

Good Session

The session on Tuesday will be an excellent one. We are confident that the students will rally to make the event a most interesting one. The added fact that there will be a number of students from the University of Montreal present should contribute greatly to a fine session of the "Mock."

This statement was issued last night by the executive of the Literary and Debating Society.

It was pointed out that all students are considered members of Parliament and fully entitled to be present and while the legislation is brought about.

The have recently organized two baseball teams in Buenos Ayres. Bulls are becoming so valuable they are now using umpires.

WITHIN NEXT TWO WEEKS TENDERS WILL BE CALLED FOR NEW ARTS BUILDING

Tenders will be called for within the next two weeks for the work on the new Arts Building. It was announced yesterday morning. The question of whether work on the new building will start during the Christmas holidays will be decided at a meeting of the Board of Governors of the university, to be held probably in the latter part of the month.

The present plans call for a new building with retention of the old McGill front, which is a landmark to McGill men and women everywhere.

FIRST M. W. S. S. THE DANSANT SATURDAY

Tickets may be Obtained from Various Representatives

The first of a number of The Dansants to be put on by the McGill Women Students' Society will be held in the Convocation Hall of the Royal Victoria College on Saturday Dec. 5th when music and catering will be supplied by well-known college favourites.

Formerly before the days of the M. W. S. S. it was usual for one society to give a The Dansant and keep the proceeds or else for a committee to arrange the affair and divide the proceeds among different societies. This year however the M. W. S. S. decided that it would simplify matters greatly if one central committee could be elected to manage all the Dansants for the year since experience in arranging one such affair would be useful when the time came for another event of the same sort.

This year all the Dansants will be managed by a Committee of which Miss M. Higginson is the General Convener with Miss Turner, Miss Gray and Miss Languedoc as conveners of sub-committees. These organizers have been elected by the members of the M. W. S. S. and the proceeds derived from the dansant will go to that Society where they will eventually be divided among the subsidiary societies as the need for funds arises.

It is not yet known who will supply the music for the event, next Saturday but it is guaranteed to be one of the popular college orchestras.

Tickets for the M. W. S. S. The Dansant at 75 cents each or $1.25 a couple may be bought from the Porter at the Union or from any class representative.

MISS FRANCES JAMES DELIGHTS HEARERS

Miss Frances James, popular McGill soprano, has returned from Pittsburgh, N. Y. where she appeared as soloist with the State Normal School Glee Club in its Annual Fall concert. Miss James met with great success on this occasion her beautiful voice and charming personality delighted her audience to such an extent that she was recalled numerous times and had to sing several encores before the audience was satisfied.

Now In Library Fac-simile Of Oldest Printed Book

The Redpath Library Museum announces the presentation of another very interesting Oriental exhibit which will continue from the first of December until the end of March. The exhibit will consist of several collections of Oriental books, manuscripts and other items, some of which have lately arrived from the East and others which have been loaned to the Museum by various collectors in Canada.

Two collections of particular note are those of Chinese and Tibetan manuscripts loaned to the Library by Mr. G. M. Gest. Of equal interest is the Dr. Casey Wood collection of Ceylon daggers and manuscripts which have just arrived from Ceylon where Dr. Wood is gathering various collections for McGill.

Several finely illustrated books from the Blackader Library of Architecture as well as two other collections, one of Japanese books, belonging to Prof. Ramsay Traquair, Prof. of Architecture, and the other a miscellaneous collection loaned by Mr. Cleveland Morgan, will also command interest, while the remainder of the exhibit will consist of the Library's collection of Oriental manu-

MR. CLARKE AT S. C. A. LECTURES ON "POVERTY"

Remedy for Poverty in Simplicity and Selflessness

CAN BE CURED

Unemployment Result of Industrial Revolution of the 19th Century

Thursday afternoon Mr. Clarke of the Family Welfare Association in Montreal spoke to the S. C. A. in the Common Room of the R. V. C. taking as his subject "Poverty."

In his opening remarks Mr. Clarke stated that "every social worker has faith that poverty, like any other disease can be cured." The causes of the disease he attributed to unemployment and sickness, and finally impressed upon his audience that the sole cure for the ailment could only be attained through the general acquisition of "simplicity and selflessness."

In his opinion the present day poverty in many ways the outcome of the Industrial Revolution of the 19th Century. Before that occurrence, industry centred in the homes and was dependable upon manual skilled labor, which is now replaced by machinery, with the result that the worker must now go away from home to get work. Again it was responsible for the fact that "we have gradually disintegration of skilled workers who are succeeded by the piece workers." Unskilled workers are absorbed by parcel industries and during difficult times these industries are the first to "throw off men." These surplus laborers he said were they whom we call "the poor."

Mr. Clarke also cited several incidents which showed how selfishness on the part of others drove people of poor circumstances into utter destitution from no fault of their own. "Poverty is curable because I'm convinced it isn't money that makes character," said Mr. Clarke, adding that there existed a type of poverty amongst well-to-do people, as well as amongst the poor, which in the former case is usually hidden by financial means.

The resourcefulness of the poor, was clearly set forth, of which the case of a father supporting a wife and seven children on $75.00 a month, was an outstanding example. To many industrialists Mr. Clarke said this seemed nothing to be wondered at, but to Mr. Clarke it would seem impossible if he did not know personally of the many hundreds of families who are being supported so daily.

"We have got to get back ultimately to simplicity," urged Mr. Clarke. "Poor girls" he said "want what is fashionable. They want what they see more well-to-do girls having. But one cannot demand simplicity of them without showing an example. Simplicity would then be eagerly imitated by the less fortunate."

"Because we lack simplicity in our lives we are selfish," said Mr. Clarke. The lack of simplicity, he further added, allows no time for thinking in education, so that everyone feels scripts to which have recently been added a number of very interesting items obtained in England during the summer by Dr. Lomar, the Librarian.

It has also been announced that a particularly fine poster announcing the Exhibit has been prepared by Prof. Traquair.

A brief examination of the several collections revealed a host of interesting items, of which the Kandyan daggers and Ceylon manuscripts are perhaps the most striking. Alongside the daggers and stylus, both of which are highly decorated with ivory and silver, are found the palm-leaf manuscripts, which are in long narrow strips and contain small, closely-written hieroglyphics.

Another item of unusual interest is the fac-simile of what is claimed to be the oldest printed book. It is among the Chinese collection. Among other items are a dozen new Hindos Paintings, several beautifully decorated Persian Bindings of the Koran and the Romances, and also several leaves from Persian manuscripts of which the remaining leaves are in the Metropolitan Museum.

Several beautifully designed Da-

MONTREAL, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1925.

THE CHRISTMAS GRADUATE

"Read 'em and weep", that famous motto of African Gold does not always hold true for other things. In fact around University we "read 'em and laugh"—at exams.

From the time we enter University until we graduate we are continually being told to read certain books and articles. Any professor will tell you that very little attention is paid to these requests.

At the opening of the term there is always a period of restlessness. Students find it hard to settle down to any course of study, instead they are drawn into outside activities which have no definite connection with their scholastic work and as a result their studies suffer.

In past years there has always been a large number of Christmas graduates; the majority of whom are from the freshman year. Most of these students attribute their failure to participation in outside activities, both athletic and social, but after due consideration one is forced to the conclusion that there are other more serious causes. Those who are asked to leave at Christmas are not usually the ones who are taking the greatest part in legitimate organizations around the campus but rather the ones who neglect their work because of a lack of seriousness on their part, because of too great an interest in trivialities. It is a noteworthy fact that the ones who take a prominent part in legitimate University activities are seldom failures in their academic work.

Many of these are away from parental discipline for the first time in their lives and do not know how to use their unaccustomed freedom. Also coming as they do from High Schools or Colleges where they have been spoon fed, and forced to do their work under threat of punishment, they fail to consider that at University it rests with themselves to get the most out of the time at their disposal.

Sir Arthur Currie, speaking at the Dentistry banquet last year told his hearers that one of the most difficult problems to solve was that of the Christmas graduate. Often he said the student passed his matriculation examinations with very high marks but fell so low in his term tests that the University was not warranted in keeping him on. It was difficult to know what to do in such a case, the student could not be sent home with a note to his parents that he was only fit for digging ditches.

With the near approach of the Christmas vacation, only three more weeks, it behooves us to take stock of ourselves. Think over what you have been doing and if you find that you have been neglecting your work or are behind in your reading, start now to make up for wasted hours and determine to study hard until the Christmas exams at least.

Students Will Hereafter Be On Time For Lectures

A philanthropic friend who prefers to conceal his real identity and be known as Mr. B. has kindly donated the Weinbley Non-Stop Railway to McGill.

The first rail will be laid almost immediately when completed, the system will effectively link up all buildings and will pass conveniently close to the entrance gates where the students may embark. Cars will be painted alternately red and white and will be operated from a central base to move continuously at a speed greater than a walk but less than a run. Students may ride in cars of either colour irrespective of their political views. As the clock strikes the hour late students will find that the whole system accelerates at a rate of one foot per second, squared. Physicists will be able to calculate the exact speed at which a student will arrive at a given lecture.

In order to prevent nurses and babies from joy-riding on the Non-Stop, all undergraduates must prove unmistakably to the official in charge that they are students by being able, at a moment's notice, to render their latest fox-trot vocally. On occasions they may be required to demonstrate the Charleston. Anyone failing to comply with this rule will be regarded legally as a nurse or baby and will have to walk.

Under the new system no student will even be late for lectures and he will be spared all unnecessary fatigue and will be able to dance farther and later at night.

We cannot help feeling with Mr. B. that it will be pleasant indeed to see a long line of Red and White cars winding in and out among the sombre buildings of the University and carrying happy students from one lecture to another.

are six weeks behind in our work.

No, there is something lacking at these jazz teas and that something is our only possibility of completely dispelling the idea of work from our thoughts. Enough for idle talk, to business now.

To my mind's eye the ideal McGill Jazz Tea appears thus:—The Orchestra is situated in the centre hall so that it could be heard in both dining rooms. The tables are clustered around so as to leave clear a nicely polished portion of the centre floor in each dining room. A pinch of horradic acid to taste. As the afternoon work finished the delicate little Co-eds, much fatigued with the day's struggle, trip down to have a refreshing cup of tea and strange to say a "Stag" or two both seem refreshment beneficial.

Now, mark me well, this idea does not include a tea dance but, if perchance, a sweet young thing should meet a boy she'd known since child-

DOINGS AT MAC

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY GAVE FIRST CONCERT

Musical Season Opened at Macdonald College
600 PRESENT

Appreciative Audience Enjoyed Well-Balanced Programme Last Saturday

On Saturday evening, November 21st, the Philharmonic Society of Macdonald College rendered a most delightful entertainment in the Assembly Hall of the College. This was the first of the Society's three concerts for the season 1925-1926. The hall was thrown open at 7.15 p.m. and was filled up long before the appointed hour. Approximately 600 persons—students and residents of St. Ann's—enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

Those who arrived early sat patiently until 7.45 p.m., when the large Chorus in which both students and staff took part, followed by the orchestra, filed in. The Philharmonic Society, which numbers approximately 75 members, threatened to overflow the platform.

As an opening Mr. Birkett Musgrove, F.R.C.O., the conductor of the Society addressed the audience explaining that one number had not been included in the programme. This number was Chopin's Funeral March, played as a tribute of respect to the late Queen Alexandra. The audience stood to attention while the solemn strains of this composition echoed through the hall. At its conclusion the "Last Post" was sounded on the trumpet. The whole of this recital was an impromptu arrangement.

The programme now opened in earnest. The first selection was entitled "Marital Moments". The composer has here brought together short portions of many well known marches, making a march medley.

A chorus of fifty voices then rendered "Hail Golden Morn". In the singing of this, each part is to be highly commended. The piece was executed in a clear distinct, and strongly accented manner.

The outstanding achievement of the evening was "The Clock" Symphony No. 4 in D, by Haydn. Although this composition of the clock is undoubtedly a beautiful one, it has for some reason or other fallen rather into neglect, but after hearing it so ably interpreted by Mr. Musgrove, one can only hope that it will come into greater prominence at other musical recitals.

One of the most appreciated selections of the evening was The Priar's Song, "Ho Jolly Jenkin", from the opera Ivanhoe by Sullivan—a song which symbolizes mirth and happiness—ably rendered by Dr. Angrove, and by the chorus which took part in the refrain.

M. R. Chartier's selection, a violin solo "Hungarian Rhapsody" by Hauffner, received storms of applause. The appreciation of the audience was not at all satisfied until it had received two encores. The final selection played by M. Chartier was the old favourite, Souvenir which as an entirely impromptu rendering, was in the opinion of many of those present one of the finest interpretations of that composition they had ever had the pleasure of listening to.

After the intermission, two suites and an entr'acte were played by the orchestra, followed by a violin solo and a part song.

The first movement, "Lady Radnor's Suite"—Sir Hubert Parry contains six parts which insure variety in its presentation.

In "Lady Radnor's Suite", Parry had modelled his time on the older dance forms used by the great composers. The titles are:—

- (a) Prelude
- (b) Allegretto
- (c) Sarabande
- (d) Bourree
- (e) Slow Minuet
- (f) Gigue

The Gigue is dedicated to Helen Countess of Radnor for whose string band it was written, and was first performed at the Gloucester Festival in 1886.

The Gigue makes a very appropriate finale for this production. It overflows with vivacity and life ending abruptly in a manner which recalls the rhythm that is so admirable in the Prelude.

The second suite—"Indian Love Lyrics" by Woodforde-Flinden which includes Temple Bells, Less Than the Dust, Kashmiri Song, and Till I

Singer of Canada Believes Poet or Writer is Vicarious Translator

At the ungodly hour of 8.30 a.m. Monday November 23rd, Macdonald College had the privilege of hearing a spirited address and reading by Bliss Carman, Canada's poet laureate.

As simple and unassuming as one of his poems, the "Singer of Canada" appeared in the Assembly Hall of the College which was filled with a capacity audience of students of the Schools of Agriculture Household Science and Teachers. Members of the staff and pupils from the day school were there also all eager to get a glimpse of the distinguished speaker.

Dr. Carman was introduced in a few well chosen words by Dean Laird, who emphasized the ungodliness of the hour for a poet. He also expressed his regret that sufficient notice had not been given to all those connected with the College to enable them to avail themselves of the privilege of hearing Bliss Carman's address.

In opening Bliss Carman said a few words relative to the series of lectures that he was delivering at McGill and other universities on "poetry and its relation to life", a series that has as its objective the better appreciation of good poetry by the youth of Canada. "Poetry," he said, "broadens our outlook on life, quickens the imagination and strengthens our personality. It is great in that its appeal is a universal one. Some poetry embodies a philosophical grasp of life; is, in fact, an interpretation of life. As such, it thrills us and increases our powers of living, it only for the time being."

"The aim of poetry is to add to the knowledge of mankind, in a philosophical sense. Wordsworth's 'Daffodils', for instance, does not increase our botanical knowledge of daffodils, but adds the growth of our imaginative faculties."

The speaker then urged his hearers to select the poet whose writings they appreciated and understood best and to study him in preference to feigning a fashionable admiration. In literature, as in life, we should always prefer the position where we can be happiest; "because happiness is a legitimate test of successful endeavour."

"Mankind," claims Bliss Carman, "is happiest in achievement. We seek until we find ourselves, our niche in life, so to speak—the niche where we are happiest. Literature and poetry are indispensable in this respect, because they portray portions of the happiest moments of mankind."

According to Dr. Carman a poet or writer is a sort of vicarious translator, who conveys no facts or statistics. He gives his readers something of what he himself felt and saw—the sumtotal of his experiences. Something in nature thrills him intensely; plain ordinary prose will not convey this impression adequately so he makes use of rhythm and metaphor to "get it across." In his work the true artist makes use, not only of his imagination and intellect but of the wider community spirit that moves the race; and is the soul of inspiration.

Before giving his reading Bliss Carman prefaced it by a few remarks on the reading of poetry. "Poetry," he said, "is a spoken art. To properly appreciate it, like music we need to hear it orally. For verse to appeal to children we must teach Awake, was equally appreciated by the audience.

The selection entitled "The Land of Hope and Glory" composed by Elgar was rendered very strikingly as a cornet solo by Mr. S. Watford, the chorus joining in the refrain.

The part song "O Peaceful Night" made a very pleasant variation in the programme, the arrangement of which showed much care and forethought. This song, a cappella, proved beyond a doubt the assertion that the human voice is the most perfect of musical instruments.

The audience expressed its appreciation by insisting that an encore be given.

The Entr'acte entitled "Adieu" composed by Rudolf Friml was rendered by the orchestra. As a commencement one half of the string instruments, the majority of which were violins, preceded the other half. The selection was skillfully executed and much appreciated by the audience.

Finally the strains of the National Anthem closed an eventful evening at Mac.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Editor,

Sir:—Follow Students, I come to strike a mighty blow at the much advertised "Jazz Tea." Syncope and supper sang Sonoritas, hah! We would far more easily reflect on the woes of our wearying days were we furnished solemn melodious strains with those of our coffee.

But alas! again we fall for recreation and not reflection is the order of the day. We sit at table in the Union about to swallow some of Pierre's delicious pastries when harmonious sounds of condensed pop drift across the room arousing in us happy remembrance or gay anticipation only to be dashed to pieces by the sudden reaction as we realize that we

BASKETBALL

SENIOR DEFENSE STRONG: SQUAD WORKING HARD

THE SENIORS

A lot of improvement in their combination and passing was the feature of yesterday's practice. The whole senior team combined well and played a fast game. They are a real hard working snappy bunch. The senior team played the first regular game against the Intermediates, a real game with timekeepers and scores on the sidelines and defeated them quite easily. The intermediate forward line finding it hard to get by the senior defense. This year's team is strong in that department and should be the stumbling block of opposing teams. Amaron is steadily perfecting his shot, while Groseman is a reliable point getter underneath the basket. He receives his passes and snaps them up towards the basket with the invariable result that the ball passes through the net. Jehu, James and Copping played their usual fast game and were shifted on and off the coach giving everyone a chance to make good. Koff and Sullivan both jumped at centre while Rafalevitch and Johnson did some good relief work on the defense. Blumentstein and Quackenbush played a stonewall defensive game. The senior team is looking forward to the game with the Y. M. H. A. next Saturday. By that time they expect to be in good enough condition to defeat the strong "Y" aggregation. On December 11th they travel to Potsdam N. Y. where they will play the Clarkson J. C. quintette. On the following day, the 12th they play in Canton N. Y. against St. Lawrence College.

THE INTERMEDIATE

The seconds played their usual good strong game. They went at full speed and were on the go all the time. They, however, found the senior defense a hard nut to crack and did little scoring. Nevertheless, they gave the senior team a real hard fight. Young, Covshoff, Doloresky and McRoberts took their turns on the defense and acquitted themselves creditably. On the forward line, Loomie, Statter, Ryder carried the brunt of the work. Silverman was playing at centre. Relieving him was Addie a newcomer to the squad. Addie is a big boy, the cayman type and can sure jump. He gave the senior centre a hard fight and out-jumped him. Although he handles the ball somewhat loosely, a little training and hard practice will make a valuable addition to the squad.

THEOLOGICAL BASKETBALL

The Theologians have a basketball league all of their own. Every Thursday night they gather in the Montreal High Gym and battle with each other for full forty minutes. The aspiring persons seem to have caught the basketball craze for at the opening games a goodly crowd lined the sidelines of the gym. The crowd was enthusiastic and noisy and kept on encouraging the players. Two games were the evening's menu. In the curtain raiser the Presbyterians romped off with an easy victory over the Wesleyans. The score was rather one-sided, the P. C. winning by 55 to 4. Amaron scored most of P. C. points. He netted the basket 16 times, contributing 31 points to his team's score. In the second game the Diocessans defeated the Congregationists (called Congos for short) by the score of 37 to 14. Addie was the outstanding player on the floor, scoring 18 of his team's points.

P. C. — WESLEYAN

The P. C.'s started off in their scoring rampage as soon as the game started. Amaron and Innis scoring in quick succession. The Wesleyans although combining well were unable to lodge the ball in the basket. They played hard and though the odds were against them they did not slacken their pace throughout the whole game. The Wesleyans were unable to score through the first period the scoring standing 25 to 9 against them. Although the P. C. still kept up their scoring orgy, the second period was more closely contested. The Wesleyans managed to find the basket 2 times for a score of 4 points. Wooten and Armstrong were the outstanding men on the Wesleyan team, while Amaron, Innis and McGerrigal starred for P. C.

The line up:—
 Forwards: Wooten, Innis, Stewart
 Centre: McGerrigal, Adam
 Defence: Duckworth, Armstrong, McPhail, Paten
 Spares: Martineau, O'Brien, Scarf, Bartlett, Kelloway.

CONGOS-DIOCESAN

The second game though somewhat more closely contested was a repetition of the first. The Diocessans did most of the scoring. Addie at centre was the strength of the team and scored repeatedly. Lidstone played a good game on the forward line and scored at opportune moments. The game was a very fast one with the ball travelling up and down the floor at a fast rate. The half-time score was 20-10. In the second half the Congos gave the Diocessans stiffer opposition and only allowed them to score seven points, whilst they themselves scored four points making the final score 37-14 for the Diocessans. The line-up:

Congos: Forward: Lidstone, Whitmore, Forth
 Centre: Eddy
 Defence: Smith, O'Connor-Foster, Matthews, Brown

EXHIBITION GAME

Science 22 basketballers journeyed down to Verdun yesterday evening and gave the natives a masterful exhibition of the art of basketball. The scene of the conflict was the Verdun High School and the opposition styled the Verdun Basketball Team (no connection with Verdun High School). The game was fast and clean; Verdun was lighter, but much quicker than Science. For Verdun, Ross and 22 Molot starred while the Engineers put up a steady game, everybody showing up equally well. A goodly crowd of Verdunites was on hand but, sad to relate, McGill representation was prominent by its absence. However, the gathering was very sportsmanlike and gave its guests a good hand at the slightest provocation.

Oh yes, before the fact is overlooked, let it be known that there was some scoring; indeed this was the spectacular and remarkable feature of the game. Unfortunately the Daily's adding machine collapsed from overwork before the finish of the game and as a result, the final score was not obtained. At time of going to press this information was still unknown and therefore, the reader's indulgence must be craved in this regard. However, there can be no doubt, alas, that Science came out on the short end of the score. Incidentally the Engineers met their first defeat of the season.

The line-up:
 SCIENCE 23 VERDUN
 Centre: Vberg, Wykes
 Forward: Spriggings, W. Molot
 Montgomery (Capt.), Ross
 Defence: Scissions, Stobart
 Jones (Capt.), E. Molot
 Spares: Walker, Whyte, Beatty, Knowles, Dunlop, Hatcher, Kraymer, King, Secher

CLASS BASKETBALL

On Tuesday at five there will be a meeting of the class managers in Mr. Van Wagner's room in Molson Hall. The meeting is of utmost importance and all managers are urged to attend. The meeting will consider the possibility of changing the schedule from two leagues into one. There are now 9 teams left who can participate. Pharmacy having been disqualified on account of their having played men who were not medically examined. A single schedule such as proposed will mean that each team will have to play eight games and extend over two terms. Managers who cannot possibly attend the meeting are asked to give their opinion to Mr. Van Wagner or Pugh at Strathecona Hall.

Recovering at length from the stupor caused by the sight of so much still life, the operator succeeded with great difficulty in rousing the class. For some time all was activity, even the college animals were called in to take their part. Amongst these the hogs were particularly noticeable for their magnificent proportions and royal bearing.

The suggestion that certain selected individuals should be filmed at work in their studies was received with disfavor, as it was felt that this might necessitate the permanent establishment of the operator in the college.

The foreboding removed several hours later allowed outraged nature to repair the ravages of an eventful day with the movies.

ADDITIONAL DOINGS

O' you Winter Course students, what have you have wrought in our midst! Before you came—Macdonald snored peacefully "under the wide and starry sky" amid its fields and ploughlands, blissfully ignorant of the doings of the outer world, and now, see what's happened! That's without counting the "Foyer Club" and its members, which has increased at least two hundred percent, within the last two weeks. We'll have to get a larger Foyer if things go on in this way much longer. What! you say you have never heard of a Foyer Club! Such classial ignorance on your part! Why, don't you see that the very name suggests it? If you know what a club is and you know what a foyer is, well put one and one together and you have a "Foyer Club." Now, if you don't know, you ought to, and we are afraid that we can't enlighten you further.

Well as I said before, the Club is progressing until it now almost rivals The League of Nations in its efforts to settle the affairs of the world. We are surprised, however, that more of the members didn't turn out to the lecture last Sunday. They certainly missed a favourable opportunity of carrying on their great work, as there was a good field for it under the gallery.

Speaking of lectures, no doubt, you are entirely in favour of having them "short and sweet" as the one on British Guiana, was eh? Well what do you say to stirring a movement in favour of having them out here? Not necessarily on British Guiana, for we know all about that already, but on some other. Topics, for instance—Stock Judging, the Science of Cookery, or Education.

All last week the girls were busy practising basketball to get up some muscle for the game with Trafalgar Institute on Saturday. (It sounds like a deaf and dumb institute don't you think?) We have good reasons to believe that it isn't however, so our girls had to exert all their energy to win the game. The many meals of prunes and pork stood them in good stead, for they defeated the girls of the Institute by a score of thirty-two to fourteen.

A game of Ground Hockey was played on Tuesday with the sturdy Amazons of the M. S. P. E. We do so like watching games like these, that the whole College turned out in force. The field was lined with yelling spectators and orange rinds—more oranges than spectators—but what does it matter so long as the field is lined with something. The human element really is neither here nor there—anyway it wasn't there.

Evidently the before-mentioned human element was saving up its strength to go to the basketball game in the Men's Building that evening. At the appointed minute, the female element met in the Foyer, and were conducted by a member of Ye House Committee in the proper way through the Tunnel to the scene of action. What utter nonsense, say you? Why, not at all—it is the only safe way to do things! What if some of them broke loose and got loose on the Campus in the dark! We won't think of the awful possibilities, but thank our stars for the House Committee.

The regular Saturday night dance was put off so that everyone could go to the Concert given by the Macdonald Philharmonic Society in the Assembly Hall. It was a wonderful concert—a wonderful concert! The singing and orchestral pieces couldn't have been better—and it was greatly appreciated by a peppy audience.

The weeks are flying by on wicked wings and our doom is fast approaching. Oh to be able to go to sleep and wake up on Christmas day with all our exams passed and over! In reality it is more likely that it will be our careers here that will be past and done, and not the exams, so let's eat, drink, and be merry for at Christmas we die.

ing past years, the central provinces were buying not only American coal but also Welsh and Scotch coal. Does this look like justice for the Maritimes?

Fourthly, the Maritimes claim that the fishing industry has been neglected and is also left to perish. The Iniquitous Fordney Tariff has completely shut Nova Scotia fish out of the New England Market, while the American fishermen, still fish in Canadian waters and carry their fish home to market not allowed to us, and also use Canadian ports to ship fish home. To this our Government stands back and does not raise a finger of protest. The Maritimers demand a more rigorous encouragement of the fish industry and demand that this port folio go to the Maritime provinces.

Again there is the banking question. In late years there has been a tendency of smaller banks, most of which had their origin in the Maritimes, to merge into larger institutions. The result is that the banks nowadays are huge, and powerful, and all have their head offices in Montreal or Toronto. These banks are consequently more independent, wealthy and powerful, and are entirely out of touch with the needs of the Maritime provinces, and can not be induced to finance legitimate industry.

The Maritime Provinces are losing population, and consequently are losing their representation in parliament. The result is to-day that the voice of the Maritimers, is not heeded in Parliament because the party leaders consider their vote so small to count. Nova Scotia's losing population at the rate of one thousand per month. Prince Edward Island dwindled from 103,000 in 1900 to 80,000 in 1920. Similar figures hold for New Brunswick.

Where are these sons and daughters going—mostly to the U. S. A. We are told that in the New England states alone there are two million Canadians, and in the whole of the United States there are more Canadians than there are in Canada.

This is indeed a very serious state of affairs, and one which must be the cause of grave concern to every Canadian. Can the situation be remedied, and what is the remedy, and is the blame to be laid at the door of the Government or past Governments? Sir Arthur says he doubts if the country is being governed by the will of the people, and also says that he has lost faith in politicians. The situation can certainly be remedied with a business government. What we want is more of business in government and less of government in business. The centre provinces must be brought to a clear understanding of

ST. MIKE'S AND MCGILL SECONDS BATTLE TO-DAY

The Intermediates, last hope of McGill in intercollegiate rugby, go into battle this afternoon at the stadium and will attempt to wrest from the Irish of St. Michael's college, Toronto the fourteen points lead which the Double Blue gained in the Good City a week ago.

The result of that last game looks bad. It looks as though the famous speedy Irish backfield had been running away with things. But that is not right. The Irish were good, but McGill untidiness gave them their opportunities. To-day the Red and White are sure they are going to play a tighter game and, that doing this they are going to beat the invaders.

Both squads should be at full strength. Dave Munroe is back again at snap for the locals. Besides him will be Carson the plunging linebman and Freddie Dugh, Adams and O'Meara are slated to start at middle with the Science flash, Willie Conastello and Norm Chisholm at end. Graeme Gorrie who has put in one of his finest seasons since coming to the university plays flying wing, and on the half line are men who can rank with the stars of St. Mike's. There are Curly Taylor, the great little player from Saskatchewan who is regarded by everybody as a man of senior calibre and who only missed making the senior squad because of an intercollegiate ruling; Tommy Arnold, another little fellow who has played alongside Taylor through the season to form one of the finest pairs of running halves in the intermediate series, and Gordie Graessick the speedy Medicine star who has been one of the outstanding men in the interfaculty and has been a senior sub.

"Brude" Bazin, captain of the squad and a senior sub quarter will call the plays for his team and direct them in the struggle. The Double Blue outfit is famous all through this part of the country for its wonderful back division, a back division which is as good as many in senior company. Nig LeBel playing his last intercollegiate game for the Irish is probably their most outstanding player, but his mates, O'Brien and McGraw and the flying wins, Bob Lowry who does the punting are not far behind him for brilliance. The line is conceded as slightly weaker than McGill's, but a husky line nevertheless. The names can be taken as indicating the quality. Watson is at snap, Callaghan and Haffey in the line, Dore and Sheehan, middle, while Sheehy and McKeown are the regular ends, but the latter will not be able to start on account of a torn ligament, according to word received from Toronto. McGahay calls the signals. The sub list sounds just as formidable as the regular lineup. On it are Donohoe, Moran, O'Donnell, Nich, Trotter, Heenan, McKeown and Flahiff.

The St. Mike's stalwarts, twenty-one strong, left Toronto last night at nine o'clock and are in the city this morning.

Whoever wins or loses it promises to be a great game. Judging by the last encounter between the two squads it is going to be a great game to watch. Both squads use a variety of plays and those plays are good and pulled off with snap and precision. Father Carr has been coaching the invaders while coach Shaughnessy has been giving his time during the past week to looking after the seniors, whom he could not handle much while the seniors were still playing out their schedule.

The teams:
 St. Mike's: Flying Wing: Gorie
 Halfbacks: Taylor, Graessick, Arnold
 Quarter: Bush
 Snap: Munroe
 Inside: Callaghan, Pugh, Carson
 Middle: Dore, Adams, O'Meara
 Outside: Sheehy, Conastello, Flahiff
 Subs: Donohoe, Altman, Nigh, Patch, Trotter, G. Chisholm, McKeown, Dalton, Moran, Christian, O'Donnell, Davis, Heenan, Bert Taylor

are told that in the New England states alone there are two million Canadians, and in the whole of the United States there are more Canadians than there are in Canada.

This is indeed a very serious state of affairs, and one which must be the cause of grave concern to every Canadian. Can the situation be remedied, and what is the remedy, and is the blame to be laid at the door of the Government or past Governments? Sir Arthur says he doubts if the country is being governed by the will of the people, and also says that he has lost faith in politicians. The situation can certainly be remedied with a business government. What we want is more of business in government and less of government in business. The centre provinces must be brought to a clear understanding of the case of the Maritimes, and the pact of confederation must be lived up to; otherwise the Maritimes threaten to take the situation in hand themselves and will claim the right to formulate their own fiscal policy.

The exodus must be stopped, industry must be protected and bolstered up, lower freight rates must be restored, markets for coal and fish must be opened up, and Maritime ports must not be discriminated against. What is needed most is a little of the spirit of Locarno.

After Mr. Clarke's address Miss Madeleine de Blois, the president, read a letter of resignation from the office of secretary-treasurer from the S. C. A. held by Miss Marion Ross. Nominations were then called for and Miss Eleanor Wardlaworth was elected the new secretary-treasurer after which the meeting adjourned for tea.

about three million people and one nursing school among eight million. However he pointed out that tremendous progress had been made in the last fifteen years and many fine model hospitals had been built, which the Chinese will later be able to copy for themselves.

Dr. Auld concluded his lecture by asking for sympathy for the Chinese people. "They are not an inferior people," he remarked, "but, if given the chance of a western people are their equals in every respect. Their love of industry and peace are unparalleled and all they ask is, to be left alone."

Many questions were asked by different members of the society, all of which Dr. Auld answered in a highly satisfactory manner.

Besides the regular departments, there are twenty-three government bureaus and commissions in Washington. Should you desire a check cashed while on your honeymoon, you call on all of them—before walking home.

MAXWELL GARNETT TO SPEAK HERE

"The League and Locarno" To be Topic of Address

The McGill Canadian Club has been fortunate enough to procure Dr. J. C. Maxwell Garnett to address them at to-morrow's meeting in the McGill Union. This meeting is being held under joint auspices of the McGill Canadian Club and the League of Nations Society (Montreal Branch). The speaker of the afternoon, J. C. Maxwell Garnett, C.B.E., Sc.D., is a scholar of no mean ability, who is doing creditable work in the name of the League of Nations Union of which he is now General Secretary for England. Those who enjoyed the address delivered by Sir John Power recently will undoubtedly be interested in the subject chosen. It is to be on "The League and Locarno." Much argument has been aroused over the recent signing of the Locarno Pact, and many journalists, the world over, are either condemning the Treaty, or else staunchly upholding it. Much bitterness and strife is imminent over the perplexing question of outlawing war, which is directly dealt with by the individual sponsors and signatories of the Pact. It is anticipated that the lecture will be of a very vital nature, and the public is cordially invited. The meeting takes place in the ballroom of the McGill Union to-morrow afternoon at 3.30 p.m.

President Ernest M. Hopkins of Dartmouth is on the high seas bound for Europe; he is vacationing, and will not return until just before the Christmas holidays—such is the gist of a despatch from Hanover. But what we should like to know is, and we hope he will report on his return, "Are there any Oberlanders across the briny deep?" H. R. R.

"Red" Grange says he will return to college after he has "cleaned up a bit" in professional football. We should like to know how many thousands have made like utterance—and then decided not to.

An auto sine near Lower Merion reads: "DRIVE SLOWLY: YOU MITE MEET A FOOL!" A better sign would be: "DRIVE SLOWLY: TWO FOOLS MITE MEET!"

Oil has been discovered in Australia. All they need now is a crime wave and a couple of movie stars to make a good start as an up-to-date democracy.

S. C. A. NOTES

Among the recent visitors of the Student Christian Association at McGill are Dr. Ernest Thomas and Mr. H. H. Clarke. Dr. Thomas is known to many of the students, as he has attended several of the September Conferences at Blkin House, Muskoka; while Mr. Clarke has been at McGill each year for some time past. Mr. Clarke is the General Secretary of the Student Christian Movement of Canada, and has his headquarters at Toronto, although much of his time is spent in the East and the West.

Dr. Thomas is now at Halifax, but will visit McGill on his way back to Toronto on the night of December. There will be opportunity for any of meet him who desire to do so.

Mr. Milton Stauffer, Educational Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement at New York, will be in Montreal on December 12th and 13th. During his stay it is probable that there will be a small conference out of town for those who are interested in the "Modern Aspect of Missions." Mr. Stauffer will also be the speaker at the first University Church Service in the Union on Sunday, December 13th.

The presidents of the McGill and R. V. C. units of the S. C. M. of Canada attended a meeting of the Council of Presidents of Ontario and Quebec at Queen's University last week-end. There were about twenty present representing the University of Western Ontario, the various colleges of the University of Toronto, Macdonald College, McGill, R. V. C. and Queen's. Initial plans for a Conference next September were made.
